

Enad Global 7 announces the launch of EverQuest Legends

Enad Global 7 ("EG7") today announces that its subsidiary Daybreak Games has launched EverQuest Legends, a reimagined version of the original EverQuest developed in collaboration with the independent studio Game Jawn. The game is available on PC via the official EverQuest Legends website.

EverQuest Legends combines the nostalgia of the original EverQuest with modern gameplay systems and quality-of-life enhancements, offering players a more flexible experience that can be enjoyed solo, in small groups or in raids. The game was announced earlier this year and was followed by a closed beta during the spring prior to its launch.

The launch of EverQuest Legends further strengthens EG7's live-service portfolio and expands one of the Group's longest-running franchises with a new entry designed for both returning and new players.

The launch forms part of EG7's planned release cadence for the second half of 2026 and follows several releases across the Group during the year.
