Arjo appoints Eva Brike as new Executive Vice President Human Resources & Sustainability and member of the Arjo Management Team

Arjo has appointed Eva Brike as new EVP Human Resources & Sustainability starting June 1, 2025. Eva succeeds Marion Gullstrand, who after a long operational career has chosen to pursue new opportunities.

Eva Brike most recently held the position of Vice President People & Culture at Atos Medical, part of Coloplast. She has a solid background that also includes positions at Rosti Group and Resurs Bank.

“We are very pleased to welcome Eva Brike to Arjo. Her experience and expertise will be an asset in the continued work to strengthen both the organization and our leadership and culture – areas that are of great importance for our long-term success,” says Niclas Sjöswärd, Acting CEO of Arjo.

Marion Gullstrand has been responsible for HR and sustainability at Arjo since before the IPO in 2017 and has previously worked for many years at Getinge.

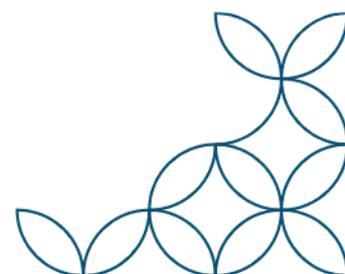

“I want to extend a big and warm thank you to Marion. She has played an important role in establishing Arjo's global HR organization and processes, as well as making our sustainability work part of our overall strategy and business. She is a very dedicated and appreciated colleague, and I wish her all the best in the future,” says Niclas.

“I am proud of the journey we have made since we became an independent company, and it has been a privilege to work with so many committed and competent colleagues. Now the time is right for me to leave the operational work and pursue new exciting opportunities – something I am very much looking forward to,” says Marion Gullstrand.

Eva Brike takes office on June 1. Marion Gullstrand will ensure a smooth transition and will leave Arjo at the end of June.
