

Citira completes acquisition of Malte Månson

Citira has today completed the transaction to bring Malte Månson, a Swedish independent truck and bus workshop operator, into the group. Together, Citira's tire management and Malte Månson's vehicle maintenance for trucks and buses offer fleets a single point of contact for heavy vehicle uptime in Sweden.

Malte Månson is a well-established vehicle maintenance service provider to truck and bus operators across Sweden, known for round-the-clock service and broad technical expertise across the full vehicle, from drivetrain to ancillary equipment. In 2025, Malte Månson had revenue of SEK 773m.

"Tire management and vehicle maintenance solve the same problem for our truck and bus customers: keeping fleets moving. Malte Månson gives us the expertise to offer both under one roof, which is exactly the kind of complete service offering our customers have been asking for," says David Boman, CEO at Citira.

"Citira felt like the right fit from the start, both as a company that shares our focus on service and respect for the customer relationship, and as one that lets us offer customers combined tire management and vehicle maintenance for heavy vehicles under one roof. I'm confident our customers will value that," says Staffan Lindewald, CEO at Malte Månson.

Relevant approvals from authorities have been obtained prior to completion.
