Investor News No. 42/2026: Collaboration with Lexis & Rother leads to another German consulting agreement

Through its collaboration with Lexis & Rother Partnerschaftsgesellschaft, Dataprocés has entered into an agreement with another German municipality to prepare a school development plan.

The assignment covers school development planning for the municipality's six primary schools and two secondary schools. Among other things, Dataprocés will prepare projections of future student numbers and conduct a professional assessment of the future development of the municipality's school sector. The school development plan is to be delivered by the end of 2026 and will subsequently form part of the municipality's political decision-making process and further planning.

The agreement represents another concrete sale resulting from Dataprocés' strategic partnership with, and acquisition of activities from, Lexis & Rother. As part of the collaboration, Dataprocés will take over the execution of future assignments within school development planning, childcare planning and capacity planning, while Lexis & Rother will contribute professional expertise, experience and relationships in the German municipal market.

The new consulting assignments generate revenue in their own right while also providing Dataprocés with access to new municipal customers and deeper insight into their needs. This supports the company's long-term ambition to build a stronger consulting and software business in the German market.

CEO of Dataprocés, Kasper Lund Nødgaard, comments:

"It is encouraging to see that our collaboration with Lexis & Rother continues to result in concrete assignments. This confirms the value of the expertise, relationships and market access that the partnership has brought us. The consulting assignments generate revenue here and now, while at the same time bringing us closer to German municipalities and their needs. This provides an important foundation for expanding the reach of our software solutions in the German market over the longer term."

The agreement does not change Dataprocés' previously announced guidance for the 2026/27 financial year.
