Advenica wins deal worth 3.5 million SEK from Northern European authority

Advenica has won an order in the Encryption Systems product area from a Northern European authority. The order value is SEK 3.5 million and concerns delivery of SecuriVPN devices.

Advenica is a well-established and trusted supplier of encryption systems for information at the highest classification level. SecuriVPN is a hardware-based quantum-secured network encryptor that provides the means for truly private communication within a geographically scattered organisation. The system prevents state-funded attackers from reading or changing the data. With quantum-secure algorithms, SecuriVPN excels in protecting data with extended lifetime while safeguarding against interception, replay attacks and manipulation of the information.

The order will be delivered in Q4 2026 and is part of a framework agreement communicated in November 2023. The deal includes encryption devices as well as a 3-year Maintenance and Support Agreement.

Returning customers and repeat orders under framework agreements are a clear sign of the close collaboration we build with our customers. Their trust in our products to protect crucial information is always a testament to our expertise and the quality of our service.
