Solo Mode Beta

The Boys in Blue Update introduces a Solo Mode Beta, addressing community feedback received since the game's release.

In this beta, the sections of the game previously hosted on PAYDAY servers are now hosted on players' devices. What it does is skip the matchmaking step, meaning players still must log in and have access to the internet, but only for the initial identification and start up. This is the first step to support a full offline option in the future.
