TrustBuddy: TrustBuddy acquires Italian Peer-to-Peer lender company Prestiamoci

STOCKHOLM, Sweden – 13 November 2014 – TrustBuddy has entered into an agreement to acquire Italian Prestiamoci, a leading long-term Peer-to-Peer (P2P) lender, for a total of EUR 5.3 million in order to strengthen its offering of business loans to small and medium-sized enterprises and consumer credit in most European countries.

– The acquisition is in accordance with TrustBuddy's long term strategy of being a diversified P2P operator, says TrustBuddy CEO Jens Glasø.

– Prestiamoci fits perfectly with the TrustBuddy portfolio and is a springboard to sizable and difficult-to-enter markets. Prestiamoci will also help product acceleration and revenue growth by offering a longer dated consumer loan product that further diversifies TrustBuddy's product offering.

Prestiamoci's innovative lending platform is built on the company's vast experience within credit risk assessments in Italy. Going forward, Prestiamoci's seasoned management team will join the TrustBuddy Group management. The Prestiamoci offer is conditional upon completion of a successful due diligence.

Further details of the transaction are included in a separate announcement released today by TrustBuddy. TrustBuddy was established in Stockholm in 2009 and the first business to facilitate P2P lending in Scandinavia. Listed on NASDAQ OMX First North, TrustBuddy is the only publicly traded P2P company in the world. It has close to 100 employees, facilitated over SEK 1 billion in short term consumer loans and is operational in 9 European countries.
