Coinmotion Selects K33 as Institutional Execution Partner

K33 AB (publ) today announced that Coinmotion, the largest MiCA-licensed crypto broker offering services in Finland and Sweden, has partnered with K33 on institutional execution.

The collaboration brings together two MiCA-authorized Nordic crypto companies with complementary strengths. Coinmotion has established itself as one of the region's leading platforms for digital asset investors, while K33 specializes in institutional trading, execution and market infrastructure. Together, the companies will combine their respective expertise to deliver an even stronger offering for clients.

> "We're delighted to welcome Coinmotion as a partner," said Torbjørn Bull Jenssen, CEO of K33. "Both companies have spent years building trusted businesses with a strong focus on compliance, security and client service. MiCA creates a common regulatory framework that makes these types of partnerships easier, allowing specialized providers to collaborate and ultimately deliver better outcomes for clients."

Antti-Jussi Suominen, CEO of Coinmotion, commented:

> "Coinmotion and K33 share a common vision of building a mature, transparent and regulated European crypto market. By combining Coinmotion's client platform with K33's institutional execution capabilities, we strengthen our offering while allowing each company to continue focusing on what it does best. We see this as a natural example of how regulated specialists can work together to create more value for clients."

The partnership reflects the continued maturation of the European digital asset market under MiCA. Rather than every provider building every capability internally, the new regulatory framework enables specialized firms to collaborate while maintaining high standards of compliance, governance and client protection.

For Coinmotion, the collaboration further strengthens its offering for clients with larger trading requirements. For K33, it represents another step in expanding its institutional execution business and supporting regulated financial institutions and crypto service providers across Europe.

Both companies expect partnerships between specialized, regulated firms to play an increasingly important role as the European crypto market continues to evolve under MiCA.
